Mike Feutz of Ferris State University Named MCAA Educator of the Year

ROCKVILLE, MD—The Mechanical Contractors Association of America, Inc. (MCAA) presented its 2008 Educator of the Year Award to Prof. Mike Feutz of Ferris State University during the Awards of Excellence Breakfast at the association's annual convention in Scottsdale, Arizona.

MCAA's Career Development Committee selected Feutz for the award based on a combination of mentoring ability, industry knowledge and involvement, and active participation in Student Chapter Program activities. Since 1998, Professor Feutz has dedicated considerable time and effort to the student members of the Greater Michigan MSCA Student Chapter at Ferris State University. He has organized the chapter's monthly meetings, field trips to MCAA members' operations to learn more about the business of contracting, community volunteer programs, trips to the MCAA annual convention and to an annual student conference—the Student Chapter Summit. He has helped the students with fundraising and membership recruitment activities and he has helped undergraduates find internships and graduates to find full-time positions. This past year, Professor Feutz helped organize and manage a project involving the development of an online database of pipe, connectors and the suppliers of that equipment.
