Greater Michigan MSCA Student Chapter at Ferris State University is MCAA's 2008 Student Chapter of the Year

ROCKVILLE, MD—The Mechanical Contractors Association of America, Inc. (MCAA) presented its 2008 Student Chapter of the Year Award to the Greater Michigan MSCA Student Chapter at Ferris State University during the Awards of Excellence Breakfast at the association's annual convention in Scottsdale, Arizona.

MCAA's Career Development Committee chose the winner on the basis of several criteria, the most important being how well the chapter promotes student interest in our industry and the career opportunities our industry offers.

Chapter President Jamie Ambeau accepted the award on behalf of the chapter.

For additional information about the Student Chapter of the Year Award or MCAA's Student Chapter program, contact Ann Mattheis at amattheis@mcaa.org.

The Mechanical Contractors Association of America, Inc. (MCAA) serves the unique needs of approximately 2,500 firms involved in heating, air conditioning, refrigeration, plumbing, piping, and mechanical service. We do this by providing our members with high-quality educational materials and programs to help them attain the highest level of managerial and technical expertise. MCAA includes the Mechanical Service Contractors of America, the Plumbing Contractors of America, the Manufacturer/Supplier Council, the Mechanical Contracting Education and Research Foundation and the National Certified Pipe Welding Bureau.
