Mark Rogers Elected Senior Vice President & Treasurer of the Mechanical Contractors Association of America

ROCKVILLE, MD—The Mechanical Contractors Association of America, Inc. (MCAA) elected Mark Rogers as its Senior Vice President and Treasurer during the association's annual convention in Scottsdale, Arizona.

Mr. Rogers is chief operating officer of West Chester Mechanical Contractors, Inc., an HVAC, service and plumbing contractor that serves the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, area.

Appointed to the Board of Directors in 2003, Mr. Rogers is active in the association on both the national and local levels. At the national level, he serves on the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors. He is chairman emeritus of the Education Committee and has served on a number of task forces that have developed MCAA education programs. He is a graduate of MCAA's prestigious Advanced Leadership Institute (ALI).

At the local level, Mr. Rogers served as president of the MCA of Eastern Pennsylvania. He is also a trustee and serves on several committees.

The Mechanical Contractors Association of America, Inc. (MCAA) serves the unique needs of approximately 2,500 firms involved in heating, air conditioning, refrigeration, plumbing, piping, and mechanical service. We do this by providing our members with high-quality educational materials and programs to help them attain the highest level of managerial and technical expertise. MCAA includes the Mechanical Service Contractors of America, the Plumbing Contractors of America, the Manufacturer/Supplier Council, the Mechanical Contracting Education and Research Foundation and the National Certified Pipe Welding Bureau.
