MSCA University™

The wildly successful Sales Leadership Symposium was first offered prior to the MSCA 2014 educational conference and all subsequent classes have received equally positive feedback. Here's what past attendees had to say about this course:

"I thought the class and content were great! I am looking forward to using the information and tools provided to help our sales team."

"This was a great lead into the sales training program. As a sales manager/coach, it was refreshing to have this training to remind us of what we need to do as the leader."

Who Should Attend: This is for service sales leaders who recruit, hire, onboard, train, and/or coach service sales personnel (even if s/he does not have a sales manager job title) and leaders who are committed to the long-term development of his/her sales team. To get the most out of Sales Institute programs, it is recommended the Sales Leadership Symposium be attended by the sales leader before members of his/her team participate in the Sales Masters program.
