

2017 Field Leadership Conference

Equipping Your Field Leaders for Success: A Results-Oriented Conference

Three days away from the job that will transform and elevate your field leader's vision, perspective and performance.

October 11, 2017 - October 13, 2017

Philadelphia, PA

Give your field leaders the skills they need to be a business- and results-oriented manager focused on growing your company's profits and brand.

“Training my foremen is an investment in the future success of my company.”

—Larry Gunthorpe, president,
Gunthorpe Plumbing & Heating, East Lansing, MI

Sending your field leaders to this conference is an investment that will pay for itself many times over...Here's why!

Your business...its growth, development and its future...depends on the management and financial success of your projects. And, the person who is key to bringing in your projects on time, on budget and online is your field leader. He or she needs to keep all the people and pieces working smoothly, efficiently and in accordance with the schedule so that your business makes a profit on every project. To meet the demands of that job requires knowledge of the tasks to be accomplished, but even more important, the leadership skills needed to motivate project staff and labor, solve project problems quickly and effectively, relate positively with customers, suppliers and colleagues and to use strategies that will increase productivity and profits. Your field leader may have the craft knowledge and experience in his/her project supervisory tool belt, but what about leadership and management skills?

If you can't answer that last question with a positive “yes,” then you need to send your field leader(s) to MCAA's Equipping Your Field Leaders for Success: A Results-Oriented Conference. The conference is designed to help your field leaders realize their importance and value to your business as a professional and a member of your management team focused on increasing your company's bottom line. It will provide them with the skills they need to be an effective people motivator rather than a punisher; a proactive planner rather a knee-jerk responder; a team leader rather than a team member; a skillful communicator, listener and arbiter rather than a my-way-or-the-highway dictator; and a business- and results-oriented manager focused on growing your company's profits and brand. Three days away from the job will transform and elevate your field leader's vision, perspective and performance.

Your Field Leaders Will Learn:

- To view themselves as professionals;
- The importance of the bottom line;
- Why customer relationships matter;
- How to establish tangible goals;
- What's the “smarter” way to work;
- Their role as the face of your company; and
- What it means to be a great foreman.

Conference Speakers

Mark Breslin, President of Breslin Strategies in Alamo, CA, is the fourth generation of his family engaged in the construction industry and he knows its issues first-hand. Mark is known for his straightforward presentation style and as one of the foremost speakers on labor-management relationships, change management and workforce development. He is the author of several books including The Five Minute Foreman—Managing the People Side of Construction and Alpha Dog—Leading, Managing and Motivating in the Construction Industry.

He provides realistic, open-minded tangible solutions to today's problems. His journey continued into his teen years when he stocked shelves in his father's small plumbing service company while gaining new insights into the business. After completing his apprenticeship, he joined North Mechanical and moved up to Project Manager when the position opened with the departure of the owner's son.

Chris Haslinger, is the UA's Director of Training. Since joining the UA as a member of Local 50 in Toledo, OH, he has been engaged in training for much of his career. He has played a primary role in many UA training projects, including development of the Green Energy curriculum, coordination of sustainable technology programs, energy audits and retrofits, increased utilization of technology and HVAC evaluations.

John Koontz, MCAA's national director for project management and advanced supervisory education, brings a balance of academic and practical experience to his presentations. A former tenured associate professor in Purdue University's Department of Building Construction Management, he served as Purdue's mechanical construction management coordinator. He has been teaching since 1992. Prior to this, he spent 15 years in the employment of MCAA contractors in a variety of positions including senior project manager, project manager, project engineer and estimator.

Mark Rogers, is the Chief Operating Officer of West Chester Mechanical Contractors, an HVAC, piping and service contractor serving the Philadelphia area. Mark started as a steamfitter in Philadelphia's Local 420. In 1996 at the age of 30, Mark started West Chester Mechanical, a company with an emphasis on private commercial work in the healthcare and educational arenas. An MCAA past president, Mark's passion is education for everyone involved in our industry, and he continues to help develop programs and sessions for the MCAA.
